What other beverage can contribute just that mild invigoration, the refreshing qualities, the thirst-quenching properties of this superb brew?

For the fagged and jaded Half Stock Ale has no superior strength-giver anywhere.

LOCAL DUCK HUNTERS CAPTURE LARGE SEAL

The Catskill Mail says several days ago an article appeared in The Mail giving out the information that a large seal had been seen in the Hudson river opposite Catskill on the Platteje by boating parties. Since that time the monster has been seen by hunters and bathers on several different occasions.

Tuesday morning, shortly after day break, Alexander Phillips and Lee Terwilliger of this village discovered the seal back of Rogers' Island, as they were out in quest of ducks. When they first sighted the animal it was swimming, and their first impression was that it was a dog. However, upon drawing closer they distinguished it as a seal.

Phillips and Terwilliger were in a canoe and they paddled in the direction of the seal, driving it further into the creek and into shallow water. After considerable trouble they drove it ashore with the aid of a short rope, which they carried in the canoe. Mr. Phillips reported that the sea monster was a ferocious one, and after it was on shore he approached it with a paddle. The seal snapped at the paddle, and after catching it in its huge jaws, bit a large piece out of it.

The men, evidently thinking that the seal could not navigate on land as well as in the water, left it on shore and came back to Catskill for help. With George Conine they returned to the scene but his honorable sealship was among the missing. Nothing could be seen in the water and it undoubtedly went back to the Platteje where it seems to make its headquarters.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1278.—A Simple and Becoming House Dress, Ladies' House Dress With Sleeve in Either of Two Lengths (With Regulation or Reversible Closing) and Normal or Raised Waistline.

Percale, seersucker, gingham, chambray, lawn, flannel, cashmere, linen and lunene, galatea and kindergarten cloth, are good for this style. The fronts are cut low at the throat, and the diagonal closing may be made from right to left in regulation style, or both fronts may be cut alike and the closing reversed. The skirt is a three piece model, with gathered fullness at the back, and ample width at the foot. Deep tucks give breadth over the shoulders. The sleeve may be in cut in short length. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust measure. It requires 6 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 36 inch size. The skirt measures about 2 1/2 yards at its lower edge.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

The KITCHEN CABINET

REFRESHING PEACH AND PEAR.

To meet with cheerful heart what comes to me.
To turn life's discords into harmony.
To share some weary worker's heavy load.
To point some straying comrade to the road.
To know that what I have is not my own.
To feel that I am never quite alone.
This would I pray from day to day.
For then I know my life will flow in peace until it be God's will I go.

These two fruits are general favorites and may be eaten with no ill effects if not overripe or green.

Peach Ice Cream.—Wipe, pare and cut ripe peaches into small pieces, sprinkle with sugar and let stand two hours, then force through a puree strainer. To the pulp thus obtained add twice its measure of cream, two tablespoonsful of lemon juice and sugar to make it not too sweet, add a pinch of salt and freeze. Serve in sherbet cups with a quarter of fresh peaches for a garnish.

Peach Salad.—Arrange halves of peeled peaches on head lettuce, sprinkle with shredded almonds and finely chopped celery, then add well seasoned French dressing and serve chilled.

Peach Roly Poly.—Flake a rich pastry and roll out very thin. On this place sliced peaches and roll up. Place in a deep granite baking dish and cover with a cupful of brown sugar, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and three-fourths of a cupful of boiling water, two tablespoonfuls of butter and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. Have the lap of the roll up on top so that it will bake without being soggy.

Pear Salad.—Take peeled pears, cut in halves, roll in chopped nuts and place in lettuce; add a tablespoonful each of finely chopped celery, shredded almonds and pineapple. Serve with any desired dressing. Mayonnaise, if well seasoned, is especially good with this salad.

Pears baked with sugar, butter, lemon juice and a little water makes a delicious accompaniment to a meat course.

Pears cut in strips with celery and French dressing on lettuce is another most appetizing salad.

Soup meat with seasonings may be made into a nice tasty loaf for luncheon.

O. & W. ENGINEER IS GIVEN PENSION

Eugene Bearss of Kingston Has Passed More Than Fifty Years in a Locomotive Cab and Never Injured a Passenger or Ditched a Train.

After more than a half century passed in the cab of a locomotive, Engineer Eugene Bearss of Kingston has left the service of the O. & W. railway and quit work. Mr. Bearss is 65 years old and has been with the railroad now known as the Ontario and Western, since 1869. In consideration of injuries received in service and his splendid record as an engineer he has been granted a pension of $54 a month, notice of which he received from the president's office on Tuesday.

"I never hurt a passenger, ditched a train nor even pinched a man's fingers while he was coupling cars," said Mr. Bearss to a reporter this morning and evinced a natural pride in that record. He would not talk about himself although he showed an interest in railroad work as keen as in the days he first entered it as a fireman on what was then known as the Rome, Watertown and Ogdensburg Railroad. This was in 1865. Four years later he shifted to what was then the Oswego and Midland railroad and is now known as the O. & W., with which he has been continuously connected ever since up to this summer when a partial disability led him to tender his resignation.

In 1875 Mr. Bearss took a run on the Southern division of the O. & W., extending from Norwich to Watertown. He held this run for some years and when the Kingston extension of the line was opened from Elzeville, about twelve years ago he took the 35 mile run from Kingston to Summitville two round trips from this city daily, which run he had held up to the time of his retirement this summer.

Last January Mr. Bearss slipped on the ice beside his engine pit and fell several feet breaking some ribs. His right shoulder was partially crippled as a result and this injury led him to seek retirement. Nearly 50 years ago when a fireman, he caught his left foot in a wide bar and suffered a compound fracture which the surgeon said demanded amputation. The surgeon declared he would not touch it with a knife and he would take his chances on it.

He did and won. These were the only ones he has in a long career in the cab. Mr. Bearss is a heavily built man, giving up railroading he has turned his attention to his farm at home, No. 9 Green street, where his favorite hand was welding a fork today. He is in good health and hopes to enjoy his pension for some time to come. Under railroad rules had been able to continue until 70 his pension would have been $100 a month upwards to $150. Mr. Bearss earned $6.80 a week in 1915.

Railroading has undergone many changes during his long connection with it and he spoke of the eight hour legislation at Washington as a good thing in these days when the responsibility and strain were so great on the engineer. That does not mean he is going to vote for President Wilson, however, as Mr. Bearss is a Republican.

Besides his wife he has a daughter, Mrs. Olive Service of Davonne, N. Y. and a grandson, Eugene Thomas Service.

(By La Raconteuse).

In every ballroom now, one notes an unusual number of dark colored dancing dresses—and black tulle is a favorite fabric because of its black tulle over black net, embroidered with tiger lilies in brilliant reds, orange and gold. The bodice is of white lace, the sash of gold.

loons are of rose silk jersey with three ruffles of self tulle and tulle. A broad edged robe in poppy colors is suitable for fastidious launders.

SAVORY BOILED FISH.

A Delicious Way to Serve One Course of Your Dinner.

One three or four pound haddock, a cupful of vinegar, a large onion (sliced), a bay leaf, a lemon (sliced), half a teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of cream, two egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of whole black pepper and one tablespoonful of whole cloves.

Clean the fish and leave it whole, retaining the head. Wrap in a fish cloth of cheesecloth or thin muslin. Boil in water to cover, to which has been added the vinegar, onion, bay leaf, sliced lemon and salt. Cook very gently, allowing two hours in the fireless cooker and using one radiator. When done beat together the cream and egg yolks and cook in a double boiler, stirring frequently until the mixture gets a little thick. Then mix with about one-third cupful of the stock in which the fish was boiled and add lemon juice, salt and paprika to taste. Pour over the fish and serve garnished with parsley and sliced lemon. This is a very nice way to cook shad or bluefish, and the same seasonings and sauce can be used for halibut, smelts, lake trout and salmon.

FOR OUTDOOR WOMEN.

Footwear That is Modish and Leggings Too.

By all means wear woolen stockings. Get a shoe whose sole is at least as big as your stockinged foot when you put your weight on it. Get a heel as broad and low as you can comfortably walk with, and remember that walking on earth trails and leaf mold is infinitely easier on the nerves than walking on cement.

Have your shoe live to seven inches high; not lower, because rain and cold and mosquitoes have an affinity for unprotected ankles; not higher, because you add expense, weight and suffer heat without gain. Leggings, if you want them, will protect the calf. They should be of material resembling your skirt and knickerbockers.

Fashiongrams.

A frock launched forth for fall is made of large cloth and velvet. Even the tiny ruffles on the skirt and sleeves are of velvet.

One couldn't help calling a hat military when it is made of khaki silk and trimmed with red ribbon in cartridge plating.

Two toned underwear is something of a novelty. The two shades, which are blue and white, are worn in pink and blue, and pale gray or primrose with powder blue.

On hats of felt are narrow hat bands of engraved leather.

A black satin skirt is part of a stunning afternoon costume. The other part is a white broadcloth coat having pockets, collar and cuffs of the satin.

A white felt hat trimmed with black satin gives the finishing touch.

Sweeping Carpets.

Wet your brooms with boiling suds once a week and they will become tough and last much longer. When sweeping, sprinkle a handful of salt on the carpet to carry the dust along; it will make the carpet brighter. Wet newspapers, wrung nearly dry and torn into bits, are also good dust collectors when sweeping. Tea leaves are good to sprinkle on all but very delicate carpets.

Macaulay's Fifth Volume.

Macaulay lived to publish only four volumes of his "History of England," coming down to 1868. But after his death his sister prepared from his notes a fifth volume, carrying forward the history to the death of William III. This volume is included in all the later editions of Macaulay's "History of England." Macaulay's sister was Mrs. Trevelyan, the mother of Sir George Trevelyan, who has written a history of the American Revolution. She was greatly devoted to her brother, as he was devoted to her. She alone was able to decipher his handwriting and copied the manuscript of his four volumes for the press. Consequently she was the best equipped person to prepare the supplementary volume.

Eyes Out.

Two ladies were hurrying down the street in the rain, carrying their umbrellas low for protection. In turning a corner sharply the point of one umbrella struck a passerby in the forehead.

"Goodness!" gasped the woman. "I'll keep an eye out in the future."

"Dear!" exclaimed the man. "Ye nearly had one out in the present!"—London Answers.

Chemical Misnomers.

"Copperas" is a conspicuous example of chemical misnomers, being sulphate of iron, not copper. Another is "salt of lemon," which has nothing whatever to do with the fruit of the lemon tree, but is potassium bitartrate or tartar treated with oxalic acid.

Early Rising.

"You set your own success in business almost entirely to early rising."

"Yes, I'm a manufacturer of alarm clocks."—Washington Star.

Men is Creation's masterpiece. But who says so? Man.—Gazette.

ROMANCE AND THE SADDLE.

Clatter of Hoofs and Jingle of Spurs Fire the Imagination.

Romance likes to come on horseback. The jingling spurs and bridle iron chart a happy path in his ears, and from the saddle, as from the throne, he looks out over the workaday world.

Romance always has been linked with riding. In the playground, mounted on a gallant rocking chair, youth rides into a land of golden deeds; later he swings in long gallops on the faithful hobby-horse into spicy and futuristic adventure.

To the page on a prancing palfrey and to the cavalryman in khaki the lure of romance is the same. The rhythm of galloping hoofs leads always in the lance and the quivering scarlet guidon challenge to the spirit of youth. "To horse and away," and all the world's before one.

Stevenson always wanted to write a story about a man galloping up to an inn at night, and the very suggestion brings a tingle to the imagination.

By on the highway, low and loud. By at the gallop goes he.

He heard him in the sleepless midnight of his childhood, and, indeed, the sound of thundering hoofs always makes the heart beat faster. The so-called clatter of a single footer on asphalt, the crackling of twigs and leaves on the quiet autumn trails, the muffled rhythm of a canter on the turf, its resonance on a bridge—all these make music in the ears and bring the very smell of adventure. To him who rides there is always "something lost behind the ranges" and his heart yearns for it.—Scribner's Magazine.

Suggested Remedy.

For mother swallowed a fish bone and told Florence, aged five, not to bother her, because it hurt her inside. Florence replied, "Then why don't you go outside?"

Made the Cannon Balls Fit.

The first battle of the war of 1812 was fought at Sackett's Harbor, July 3, 1812, and consisted of an attack made upon the village. The inhabitants had but one gun of sufficient size and strength to inflict damage, a thirty two pounder, for which they had no shot. This difficulty was overcome by the patriotism of the housewives, who tore up carpets from the floors and with strips wound the small balls to fit the cannon.

The Orange in Spain.

It is considered a very healthful thing to eat an orange before breakfast. But who can eat an orange well? One must go to Spain to see that done. The scion cuts off the rind with her silver knife; then, putting her fork into the peeled fruit, she detaches every morsel with her pearls teeth and continues to eat the orange without losing a drop of the juice and lays down the core with the fork still in it.

Metals and the Future.

Our ancestors did not live, work and prosper in an industrial age. They were an agrarian people, living from the earth, producing only a little more than they consumed. Metals were to them as jewels are to us. A Roman soldier retained his sword through life and transmitted it for use to his descendants. The factory system, in which the labor element is a fraction in productivity compared with what capital produces through machinery, is less than 100 years old. The United States consumes today about sixteen pounds of copper per capita per annum, while in the entire continent of Asia the consumption of copper is only a fraction of a pound per capita. This is because Asia is not an industrial country. It is in the position that the whole world was in a thousand years ago, and if Asia grows industrially the demand for copper and other metals will be such as to tax even the present resources of the world.—William L. Saunders in Engineering Magazine.

RUSSIA'S GREAT RAILWAY.

It Runs From Moscow to Vladivostok, a Distance of 6,000 Miles.

It was Alexander III, who first realized the possibility of making a railway across the whole length of the continent, and in the year 1892 his son, Czar Nicholas II., laid the first stone at Vladivostok. This was done in order to guard the newly acquired territories of the valleys of the Amur and Ussuri from the incursions of other nations; the railway would thus facilitate the transport of troops if necessary. It covers a distance of 6,000 miles from Moscow to Vladivostok. The Russian government voted $40,000,000 for its construction, and it was completed in seven years.

It takes three days to reach Zlatoust, in the Ural mountains. There is to be seen the famous "stone of parting." Could it speak, what a number of heartrending tales it could tell. When criminals and political prisoners were sent to Siberia that "great lone land" of the east, their friends usually bade "adieu" in the presence of the old stone.

From Zlatoust the main line proceeds to Omsk, whence it reaches the shores of Lake Balkal, one of the largest fresh water lakes in the world. Some times the Russians term it "the holy sea" because an island in the lake was believed to be the abode of an evil spirit, who continually had to be appeased with sacrifices. Seals and beautiful sponges abound in the lake. Previous to 1905 the whole train was transferred by means of a wonderful movable platform, where it rested on rails, on to the steamer on Lake Balkal. This steamer was built at Newcastle, and was fitted with powerful screws, which could be driven through the four feet thick. Now the railway is continued round the south of Lake Balkal.—Pearson's Weekly.

Blunt Insultation.

A fashionable painter, noted for his fine output, was discussing at a table in New York a recent scandal in the picture trade. "Look here," said a noted etcher, "do you put all your own pictures?" "I do," the other answered hotly. "And what do you pay your hands?" "The etcher replied, "I'm thinking of starting an etching myself."

KINGSTON, N. Y., SEPT. 20, 1916.

The results of the voting on Tuesday raise again the question of the utility of direct primaries. It appears at this writing that only about one-third of the voters took the trouble to express their choice of candidates. It is true that this is a larger number than the old-fashioned primaries brought out, but nevertheless it is still obviously the case that nominations are made by minorities. This does not signify that the candidates are not the choice of a majority of the voters. If there were a law compelling every man to vote there is no reason to believe that yesterday's result would have been altered. It is inevitable that political parties will be managed by a relatively small number of men, no matter what system is in vogue. The average man looks upon voting as a thankless task, and wonders at the women who yearn to undertake it. If the people had their way, official terms would be longer. Once in seven years is often enough for the typical voter to exercise his privilege with enthusiasm. Once a year is burdensome, and when it comes to two or three times a year he is apt to balk and "let George do it."

A great drive in the war on undesirable bird life is planned for next spring by the League of American Sportsmen, who have picked upon the English sparrow as the object for a nation-wide campaign of destruction. Counts in the indictment against this little feathered creature state that he is multiplying so fast as to displace about fifty varieties of useful and beautiful birds which sing as well as destroy insects. The bird-boxes which are familiar in the yards of so many bird-lovers have been forcibly taken possession of by sparrows, although the builders of these high-priced devices have constructed them for blue birds, wrens or swallows, as the style of architecture may dictate. Scrappy, impudent street gamins of bird life are the English sparrows, but much is to be said of their work as scavengers. The League has invited an expression of opinion from newspaper readers on its proposed war. It is a question that some of our metropolitan newspapers may insist shall be put to the Presidential candidates. The rights of any hyphenated pests, whether English sparrow or German carp, must be protected, and a popular expression at the polls on two nuisances in outdoor life would thus be assured.

Comporting one's self as a good citizen is to purchase a garbage pail and keep it covered. Disporting one's self as a dog, good, bad or indifferent but hungry, is to upset the receptacle named and scatter its effluvia contents to the four winds of heaven. Both conditions are quite general in their observance in Kingston. An experiment of long standing has convinced one good citizen that the disporting dog cannot be captured and that, owing to his depredations being committed at night, he is immune from the corrective influence of a charge of buckshot. Even if captured, the dog could not have the can tied to his tail, as that would be subversive of humanitarian principles and bring down the S. P. C. A. and a lot of other calamities upon the back of the citizen who thus took the law into his own hands. For the same reason, it would be unwise to add poison to the daily contribution in the service of Hygieia. The police probably cannot interfere, as the dog may be duly licensed. It must remain as a matter for the individual conscience to decide with due regard for humane treatment of the dog. The Freeman has had several complaints of this character. The only suggestion that might prove helpful is for owners of dogs to feed them properly and thus save the unsanitary effort of canine raids upon garbage containers.

With the discharge of a typhoid carrier from a dairy farm near Kingston the health authorities appear to think their duty done in so far as all possible infection from this source is concerned. Was this particular individual cautioned as to his dangerous propensities? Was there a record made of his case for future reference? The public is left in doubt on these points. It will be recalled that "Typhoid Mary," the most famous of typhoid carriers, turned up under an assumed name as a cook in a New York hospital years after her original detection. Her second identification was not accomplished until several nurses and a doctor had died from typhoid fever, in tracing the source of which one of the internes recognized the familiar features of "Typhoid Mary" in the kitchen. Typhoid carriers are not imaginary creations of medical science but actual beings whose functionings are a menace to public health. In all such cases the suspect should be acquainted with his condition and educated up to his responsibilities. To turn him loose upon an unsuspecting world to spread disease and suffering in his wake is all wrong and indefensible from any standpoint. Does anybody want a carrier to quit a dairy farm only to go to work as a delivery man or, say, as a waiter in a well-patronized restaurant?

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.
Sept. 20, 1896.—Charles Dittus broke his right arm and nose and sustained other bruises by falling from a tree 25 feet to the ground. Cockendall gun squad had a Republican banner raising at the corner of Broadway and Ferry street. Addresses made by the Hon. Henry B. Fullerton of Port Jervis.

Death of Thomas Burke, well known resident of Rondout.

Sept. 20, 1906.—Miss Gertrude A. Sherwood of Kingston elected president of Young People's Union of Central Baptist Association in session at Newburgh.

John Braun and Miss Agnes Neufeld married at St. Peter's Church.

Wiltwyck Hose Company went to Port Jervis and took part in annual parade and inspection of Port Jervis fire department.

Body of Frank Bodmann who disappeared from his home on Murray street, found in river near East Kingston.

John Lutz of this city reported drowned in Mirror Lake at Ulster Park.

Dutch Supper at Shokan.
Shokan, Sept. 20.—The annual Dutch supper served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church, will occur on Wednesday, November 1, in the Sunday school room. The sale of fancy and useful articles, which was postponed last month on account of the quarantine, will be conducted at this time in connection with the supper. It is hoped that the friends and members of the congregation will respond generously with contributions for the sale and to the supper as this is the first time during the year they have been called upon for the benefit of the church. Every one is asked to unite in making the affair a success, socially and financially. A fine supper will be served for a quarter and an opportunity given to select many nice Christmas gifts from the assortment of articles offered at the sale. There will be a fish pond for the children and other attractions. If stormy, the next fair evening.

Prophetic Sullivan Co. Fish.

Neil Harrison of First street and City Terrace, Newburgh, has a 3½ pound pickerel on the side of which appears the inscription "Huehue 1860." The following story is told of the pickerel and any who doubt it may see the fish within the next few days: Mr. Harrison and a party of friends motored to Yankee Pond, Sullivan county, for a day's fishing. In the evening Mr. Harrison hooked the fish and to the surprise of those in the boat on the side of the pickerel was found the inscription. It excited great wonder among the party with the exception of Zeke Demarest, their 84-year-old guide, who said that the pond was noted for freak fish and that it was a tradition that his grandfather had caught a fish in 1810, which was marked "Lincoln 1860." Newburgh News.

Harvest Festival Program.

At the mission and harvest festival in the Spring Street German Lutheran Church this evening at 7:30 the order of service will be as follows:

Prayer.
Hymn.
Scripture Reading, Ps. 65:57.
Prayer.
Hymn.
Sermon by Rev. Max Mueller of Poughkeepsie.
Interlude.
Prayer.
Choir and Collection.
Benediction.
Postlude.

NEW HURLEY.

New Hurley, Sept. 20.—A number of the farmers in this neighborhood are filling their silos.

A circle meeting will be held at the home of Miss Edith Thorne on Friday evening, September 22. A good attendance is desired at this meeting.

The Missionary Society will meet with Mrs. James Radiker on Friday afternoon, September 29. Leader will be Mrs. George Van Wyck. Bible word, "Bounty."

Miss Alice Van Wyck of this place and Philip McCord of Jenkintown were united in marriage at the Reformed Church parsonage at New Paltz by the Rev. M. V. Orgel on Tuesday evening, September 12, at 8:30 o'clock. They were attended by Miss May Van Wyck, a sister of the bride, and Edgar McCord of Shawangunk. Mr. and Mrs. McCord left on an extended auto trip to the state fair at Syracuse, Niagara Falls and other places of interest. The happy couple have the good wishes of their many friends in this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gooding and Miss Lottie Constable entertained Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Traphagen, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Ostrand and little son and daughter of Poughkeepsie last Sunday.

Miss Addie Rose is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brown.

LETTERS LAUGH.

"Is this a free translation?" asked a customer in the book store. "No, sir," replied the clerk. "It will cost you a dollar fifty."—Boston Transcript.

"So you spent a quiet vacation on the farm?" "I thought it would be, but dogs were barking, frogs croaking and the farmer's baby was teething."—Buffalo Express.

Her Dad—"So you want to marry my daughter. I like your nerve!" Sultor—"Well, sir, you ought to. I spent a whole lot of time working it up."—Boston Transcript.

"A word carelessly spoken may do great harm." "That's right. You ought to see what one careless word from the umpire did to our ball team this afternoon."—Washington Star.

"The pen is mightier than the sword!" remarked the earnest citizen. "That used to be the case," replied Mr. Chuggins, as he wiped his hands on his hip pockets, "but what counts now is a monkey-wrench or a pair of pliers."—Washington Star.

Needed No Guide.

At an evangelistic meeting in Glasgow one of the congregation sat unmoved when an urgent invitation was given to "fall who mean to go to heaven with me, stand up." The evangelist pointed to him solemnly and shouted, "Don't you want to go to heaven?" "I'm ganglin'," said the Scotchman deliberately, "but no' wi' a personally conducted party."—Watchman-Examiner.

A Bit Thick.

Parisians drink scarcely any water other than mineral water. The Seine water has a shocking reputation.

John Raphael, Paris correspondent for several London papers, said some years ago that one afternoon a pretty actress met her doctor at a dress rehearsal in a boulevard theatre.

"Look here," she said; "I am quite sure that all this mineral water I drink, since you have forbidden wine, is dreadfully bad for me. I want your permission to drink filtered Seine water now."

"Very well," replied the doctor, "if you insist. But, mind, you must chew it well."

The Court's Decision.

A native of Georgia of a sort usually called "Crackers," was suffering from inflamed eyes. He consulted a horse doctor for treatment. The veterinarian gave him some of the salve that he used on animals. The man lost his eyesight. He then brought suit in court to recover damages. The judge after weighing the evidence in the case, said: "There is no damage to be recovered. The man would never have gone to a veterinarian if he had not been an ass."—New York Times.

Uncle Josh.

Uncle Josh was comfortably lighting his pipe in the living room one evening when Aunt Maria glanced up from her knitting.

"Josh," softly remarked the good woman, "do you know that next Sunday will be the twenty-fifth anniversary of our wedding?"

"Ye don't say so, Maria!" responded Uncle Josh, pulling vigorously on his cornucop pipe. "What about it?" "Nothing," replied Aunt Maria, "only I thought maybe we ought to kill them two Rhode Island Red chickens."

"Sax, Maria," impressively demanded Uncle Josh, "how can you blame them two Rhode Island Red chickens for what happened 25 years ago?"

Souvenir.

She was giving him his conge. "Here," she said, "is your ring. I have decided that I can never be your wife. So the engagement's off, and I shall expect you to return everything you may have in your possession that came from me." "All I have," said he, "is a lock of your hair and a photo. I don't suppose you care anything for the photo, but the lock of hair you will no doubt want to preserve as a souvenir." "As a souvenir of what?" "Of the time when you were a brunette."—New York Times.

SOUTH RONDOUT.

South Rondout, Sept. 20.—The C. E. meeting on Sunday evening was led by Miss Julia Myers.

The prayer meeting on Thursday evening will begin at 7:15 this week instead of 7:30.

MATTERS BEFORE THE SURROGATE

In the surrogate's court the will of Bessie Mones of this city has been admitted to probate by Surrogate Gull. The testatrix directs that her funeral expenses and a legacy of $150 to her daughter-in-law, Sophie Mones, be paid out of insurance moneys due from Poughkeepsie Lodge, No. 178, I. O. B. . . . and the balance of such insurance moneys be divided equally among her three sons, Max Mones, Benjamin Mones and Alfred Mones. The balance of the estate is directed to be divided equally among her five sons, Herman, Jacob, Max, Benjamin and Alfred Mones, and she appoints her brother-in-law, Harris Mones, executor. The will was executed July 22, 1916, and witnessed by Louis Kolts and Frederick Stephan, Jr. The value of the real estate is $2,000 and the personal property amounts to $450. Frederick Stephan, Jr., appeared for the executor.

The will of Mary Lynch of this city was admitted to probate. The testatrix gives the life use of her estate to her husband, Charles Lynch, at whose death the property is given to her sister, Elizabeth Robson, in trust to convert the same into cash and to pay one-fourth each to Catherine Mones, Lena Meyers and Lawrence Flick, children of the testatrix, and the remaining one-fourth to Catherine and John Flick, children of a deceased son, John Flick. Elizabeth Robson is appointed executor. The will was executed August 6, 1915, and witnessed by Christopher A. Murray and Charles Cook, both of this city. The value of the real estate is $1,500 and the personal property amounts to $1,000. Christopher A. Murray appeared for the executor.

The will of Albert H. Misner of the town of Wawarsing was partly proved and the matter held open for another witness. The testatrix gives the life use of his estate to his widow, Elsie C. Misner, at whose death the remainder of the estate is given to their children, Albert H. Misner, Josephine A. Unverzagt, Harriet E. Smith and William P. Misner. The wife and son, Albert H. Misner, are appointed executors. The will was executed July 26, 1901 and witnessed by Thomas J. McMullen, Eugene P. McMullen and Judge William D. Cunningham. The value of the real estate is $5,500 and the personal property amounts to $1,000. Raymond G. Cox appeared for the executor.

The will of Walter Eckert, of the town of Hurley, whose provisions heretofore have been published, was admitted to probate, and an order was granted appointing Fred Cratz and Thomas McSpitt appraisers. The will was executed August 4, 1916, and witnessed by Virgil B. Van Wageningen and Joseph McSpitt. The value of the real estate is $5,000 and the personal property amounts to $700. Virgil B. Van Wageningen appeared for the executor.

A hearing was had in the matter of the judicial settlement of the estate of Green M. Woolsey of the town of Marlborough and a decree was entered to be prepared. Anson J. Fowler of Newburgh appeared for the executor and Daniel B. Devo for Esther L. Blundage, one of the legatees.

Democrats' Rally Sizable

Less than one hundred and fifty Democrats of Poughkeepsie and a few non-partisan voters crowded the small headquarters of the Democratic party in that city Monday evening to hear the opening remarks of the 1916 Democratic campaign on national and local issues fired by Hon. John M. Quinn of New York city and Montana, who was formerly a state senator in New York. The occasion was also the formal opening of the new headquarters.

THE JEWISH NEW YEAR.

Wednesday, September 27, Marks Beginning of the Holidays.

Sundown Wednesday, September 27, the first day of the Jewish month Tishri, will mark the beginning of the Jewish high holidays. These holidays, of deep religious significance, will commence with the feast of Rosh Hashanah, or New Year. The New Year will be followed by ten days of penitence, which reach their climax in the Day of Atonement, October 7.

"On the New Year all the inhabitants of the earth pass before Him as sheep before a shepherd." In these words the ancient Jewish law book, the Mishna, refers to the significance of this day. It is a day of judgment when the sins and the merits of all men are weighed by the Divine Judge. The Talmud tells that in this annual New Year's judgment scene three books lie open before the Most High. In one book, the Book of Life, the names of the perfectly righteous, the sinless are inscribed; the second book, the Book of Death, has recorded in it the names of the utterly wicked; and the third book is for the ordinary "middle type" of men in whose behalf judgment is suspended through the ten days of penitence, until the Day of Atonement, when the decision is finally made and recorded.

The services for the day are especially solemn. Prayers in prose and poetry, dwelling upon the theme of God's judgment of man, are recited and sung. The Ram's horn, the "Shofar," summoning men to prayer and repentance, is sounded in all synagogues. At the close of the service the worshippers greet each other with the words "May you be written down for a good year."

Orthodox Jews observe many ceremonies which suggest the ideas and emotions of the day. In the home honey and fruits are eaten and the pious wish expressed "May it be Thy will to render to us a good and sweet year." During the day orthodox Jews will go to a river, shake crumbs from their clothes and recite among other prayers the verse from Micah, "And you will cast into the depths of the sea all their sins." While orthodox Jews observe the feast for two days, September 27 and 28 this year, reformers Jews return to the ancient Palestinian custom and observe but one day.

Biggest Black Bass Yet.

While on a fishing trip in the Walkill last Tuesday, Charles Stall of Highland caught the largest fish ever captured in the stream. It was a 6 lb. black bass, more than 24 inches long. It proved a great attraction to the Highland fishing club.

Don't begin again the eight-months' burden!

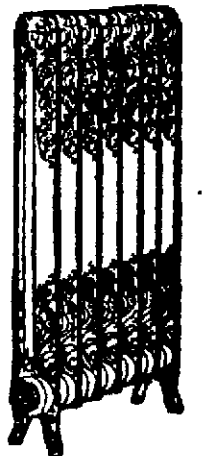

Bankers, builders, real estate men and building societies all know the increase in property value and stability of investment where AMERICAN Radiators and IDEAL Boilers are installed and therefore gladly loan money to those who wish to make this improvement. These outfits make property sell or rent quicker and at a profit.

The lasting heat that costs the least

The most important question to settle about a new or old building is the heating. IDEAL heating has answered this question for hundreds of thousands of house-owners for over twenty-five years, and as an investment it is permanent and will command a good price even after the owner has enjoyed its comfort and savings for many years.

A little larger first investment over cost of a cheap heating equipment can be quickly overcome by omitting extra inner doors, chimneys, mantels, storm sash, weather strips, etc. You might better increase your borrowing at the bank for the fuel and other savings that IDEAL heating will give you will make money for you far beyond the bank interest you have to pay.

Send at once for our (free) book "Ideal Heating," which gives most valuable information. Puts you under no obligation to buy.

PLEASURE CRAFT USE BARGE CANAL

By Telegram to The Freeman, Albany, Sept. 20.—Aside from being recognized as a most important medium of transportation, the barge canal, rapidly nearing completion, is growing in popularity as a water course for pleasure boats. According to W. W. Wetherspoon, state superintendent of public works, who is the official in charge of the canal, during the past summer the number of pleasure boats making use of the state canals has been greater than in any year. General Wetherspoon is in a position to know exactly whereof he speaks for the reason that before a pleasure boat is permitted to utilize the canalized system of the state its owner is required to apply for authority from the state superintendent of public works.

Up to the present time, Superintendent Wetherspoon has issued eighteen hundred navigation permits this season, which appears to be the high record number.

The fact that the Mohawk and Hudson river sections of the barge canal have been completed this year is regarded as the reason for the increased traffic by pleasure craft. The entire Hudson river northerly from the city of Troy has been in use and owing to the wide stretch of waters, a speed of ten miles an hour has been permitted as compared with a limit of four miles per hour in the old canal. Some of the fast boats have been able to leave Troy in the morning and arrive at Whitehall before dark of the same day.

On the Mohawk river the use of the new channel has made it possible for a motor boat to run from Troy to Little Falls, a distance of approximately eighty-five miles, in twelve hours.

Concerning the advantages of the completed portions of the barge canal offered to yachtsmen, Superintendent Wetherspoon has this to say: "The opportunities offered yachtsmen by the wide waters of the Hudson and Mohawk has been taken advantage of by what owners from all parts of the country and much commendation has been received by the public works department on the splendid facilities for navigation and the efficient workings of the new locks. The organization of the new locks has been effected during the past summer, appointments having been made from state civil service eligible lists. The force is composed of men skilled in the electrical trades, and while on duty, they wear the department uniforms."

General Wetherspoon has received many letters from motor boat owners expressing delight with the improved canals of the state, an epistle from Hon. Francis H. Gibson, K. C., parliamentary counsel for the house of commons, Ottawa, Canada. The scientific side of the barge canal is commented upon by the writer, who praises the vast engineering feat now nearing completion.

The barge canal improvement work which started a number of years ago, is generally regarded as one of the most gigantic contracts ever undertaken by any state. Some of the locks which have been built rival any other similar mechanical devices in the world and are the source of constant wonderment to visitors to America.

HISTORY AND USES OF THE GRAND JURY

The history and function of the grand jury were reviewed briefly by Judge Jenkins in his charge to that body at the opening of county court Monday afternoon.

In charging the grand jury, Judge Jenkins said:

Gentlemen: The grand jury is a body of men, returned at stated periods from the citizens of the county, before a court of competent jurisdiction, and chosen by lot and sworn, to inquire of crimes committed or triable in the county.

The institution of the grand jury is of very ancient origin. It goes back to the history of the United States, back of the history of England, before the Norman Conquest, and into the history of the Saxons. After the settlement of the disputes between the small Saxon Kingdoms, resulting in one kingdom, ruled by one king, one of the first official acts of the government was the convening of a body which was the progenitor of the present grand jury. The counties of the kingdom were divided into hundreds. It was the early practice of these hundreds each to return four knights who selected twelve other knights to inquire into the crimes committed within their jurisdiction. Later the whole county returned from its citizens representatives to make a similar inquiry. The convention composed of jurors selected from an entire county, was given the name of the "grand inquest."

First, the duty of the grand jury was not only to inquire and present, but to hear and determine. After they had found what we today call an indictment, they proceeded to try the person who was held by such indictment to answer. But the trial function of a grand jury has long been discontinued, and the grand jury as known in this country, never assumed to go farther than to inquire and present, that is, to hold for trial men against whom may be found sufficient evidence to warrant such holding before another tribunal. You see, this ancient body known as the grand jury has stood the test of time. It was originated by the Saxons and stood their test, and when the Normans came over and tried the institutions, they found it to be good, and retained it. It then became a permanent institution in England. Its purpose is two-fold; to bring the guilty to the bar of justice, and to protect the innocent from unfounded accusation.

Under the struggles which frequently arose in England between the powers of the King and the rights of the subject, it often stood as a barrier against persecution in his name. It came to be regarded as an institution by which the subject was rendered secure against oppression from unfounded prosecution of the crown. In this country from the popular character of our institutions, there has seldom been any contest between the government and the citizens, which required existence of the grand jury, as a protection against oppressive action of the government. Yet it serves a valuable purpose by protecting the citizen against unfounded accusation, whether it comes from government, or is prompted by partisan passion or private enmity.

When American governments were organized the grand jury was recognized and incorporated into the American system of jurisprudence. The first constitution of the state of New York, ratified in 1777, at this very spot, contained a provision continuing the grand jury, and providing that no person should be brought to trial for a serious offense without its intervention. Its purpose is not to hear and finally determine, but to inquire into and present any case in which it finds sufficient evidence to warrant a presentment. Your oath is a very excellent statement of your duties.

The district attorney is your legal advisor, and whenever you are called upon by him to attend upon you for the examination of witnesses, in your presence, or give your advice upon any legal matter, and for issuing subpoenas, or other process, for witnesses. The district attorney and the assistant district attorney must be allowed, at all times, to appear before you for the purpose of giving information relative to any matter before you, but no district attorney or other person shall be present with you during the expression of your opinions or the giving of your votes upon any matter. It was the duty of the court to select your foreman, and it is your duty to select a clerk. You will have a stenographer who will take the full minutes of the grand jury, the clerk only making a record of the witnesses sworn, and keeping an outline of your proceedings.

The law says you ought to find an indictment when all the evidence before you, taken together, is such as, in your judgment, would if explained or uncontradicted, warrant a conviction by the trial jury. Note the language is "ought to find," the law does not say "must find an indictment." It is not your duty to take up every technical violation of the law and present an indictment thereof simply because you could possibly find out sufficient evidence to do so. You are to use your own good judgment in the matter, and here I wish to call your attention to the importance of the grand jury, and how it has been looked upon throughout the ages. In the early days in the selection of four knights to form the nucleus and complete the grand jury, these men were presumably the most intelligent and capable men of their hundreds, measured by the standard of the times. The commission running to these knights was to summon good and lawful freemen. So today, the grand jury must possess all the qualifications of the trial jury, and must also stand a certain test. He must be a man of approved rectitude, fair character, sound judgment, and well informed. The reason for this particular care, and the selection of the grand jury, and the requirement of these qualifications, it is to be found in the discretionary powers that your body possesses, and in the fact that you are supreme in your field.

You cannot be questioned for anything you may say or any vote you may give in the grand jury, relative to a matter legally pending before you. Your proceedings are screened by a veil of secrecy, so that you may speak and act with the greatest freedom, without fear of embarrassment from what you say or do. Thus you see the importance of your duties, and your approved character assures the court that you will act accordingly.

You are to receive none but legal evidence; such as is given by a witness produced and sworn before you or furnished by legal documentary evidence; or the deposition of a witness taken pursuant to law. The statute requires me to read to you certain sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure, or for the distribution among you of printed slips containing these sections. These slips will be distributed. They are complete and full, and will act as your guide in your proceedings.

The grand jury must consist of not less than sixteen and not more than twenty three persons, and the presence of at least sixteen is necessary for the transaction of any business. No indictment may be found unless twelve of your members concur in such finding.

One word more. As I have said, the district attorney is your legal advisor, but you are also entitled to the advice of the court, concerning any matter before you upon which you may desire such advice, and upon notice the court may proceed to give you such advice.

You may now retire.

ORSOVA ON THE DANUBE.

Quaint Hungarian Frontier City Occupied by the Rumanians.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 19.—The National Geographic Society's war geography bulletin issued today gives the following information concerning Orsova, the Hungarian frontier city on the Danube recently occupied by Rumanian forces.

Only a few miles above the Iron Gates, the last defile of the Danube, and about an equal distance below the scenically magnificent Kazan Defile, is the quaint and picturesque free port of Orsova. It is 94 miles east of Belgrade and a 10 hours' voyage from that city on the Danube steamers, which in peace-times leave the Serbian capital daily at five in the morning.

Orsova is a double town. Old Orsova, with a population of about 3,000, clings to the west bank of the Cerena river which here mingles its waters with the Danube. New Orsova on the east bank, is mainly a Turkish colony with a population of 3,000. In former times the town was a Turkish fort but since 1878 it has been in the possession of Austria-Hungary.

On the outskirts of Orsova, about two miles from the steamboat pier, there is an attractive little park in the midst of which is one of the holiest shrines of the Hungarian people. It is the Kronos Kapelle (Crown Chapel) erected by Emperor Francis Joseph over the spot where Louis Kossuth and his fellow patriots buried the Hungarian crown of St. Stephen and other regalia of the kingdom in 1849. The story of the hiding of the crown is one of the most pathetic chapters in the life of the man who is generally admitted to have been Hungary's greatest leader and most incorruptible patriot. The revolution against Austria (1848-49) having failed, Kossuth and his devoted followers were seeking safety in flight, taking with them the national insignia. As they neared the Turkish frontier their patriotism would not permit them to bear the emblems of national existence beyond the borders of their country, so in secret the regalia was buried, each participant in the act vowing not to reveal the hiding place except with the consent of his associates. Some years later, however, after Kossuth had gone to England and thence to the United States, and the cause of Hungarian independence seemed hopelessly lost, the place of hiding of the regalia was revealed to Emperor Francis Joseph who had the precious articles unearthed and the spot consecrated by the chapel in which is a statue of the Virgin and Child, one of the masterpieces of the Austrian sculptor Meissner. The chapel is approached by a splendid avenue of tall poplars.

Another interesting spot in the environs of Orsova is Mehadia, a celebrated "cure," also called Herkulabad, the medicinal value of whose hot springs has been appreciated since Roman times.

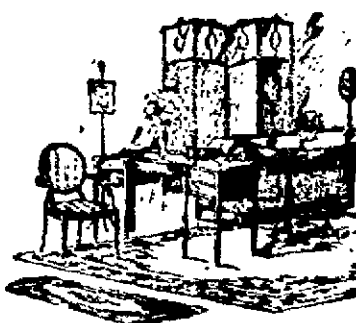

Orsova is esteemed by travelers as one of the most delightfully restful villages of eastern Europe. A famous woman globe-trotter has paid this appreciative tribute to its charms: "There is a certain little town, named Varena, lying on the brink of the Lake of Como and looking down coquettishly on its own fair image reflected in that pure mirror, which used to be my beau ideal of a quiet retreat, for one wearied of the world and its follies; but as soon as I had seen this little, romantic, smiling Orsova, I abandoned my former favorite, feeling that nowhere else had I seen a spot at once so bright and peaceful."

The little island of Ada Kaleh, with its Turkish bazaar its attractive little cafes, and its low blue-and-green-houses, is to be seen a short distance down the river from Orsova. When this one-time fortified stronghold of the Turks passed under the domination of Austria-Hungary in 1878 the inhabitants are said to have made preparations to return to Turkey, but they were induced to remain upon the promise of the authorities that the Sultan would send them each year a shipment of coffee, tobacco and other supplies dear to their hearts and appetites.

Mary was watching her mother wash. When her mother came to her dress there was a defect in the material which made it look like a spot of dirt. Her mother asked: "How did this get on your dress?" Mary earnestly replied: "Why, mother, that was born there."

Either Jane

Or John

You know young folks are a lot like old folks.

How you and all of us dislike to work at a desk that isn't interesting! It is the same with these young people.

Now that school days are about here again—you can't expect them to study in the living room with the rest of the family. The work doesn't progress as it should.

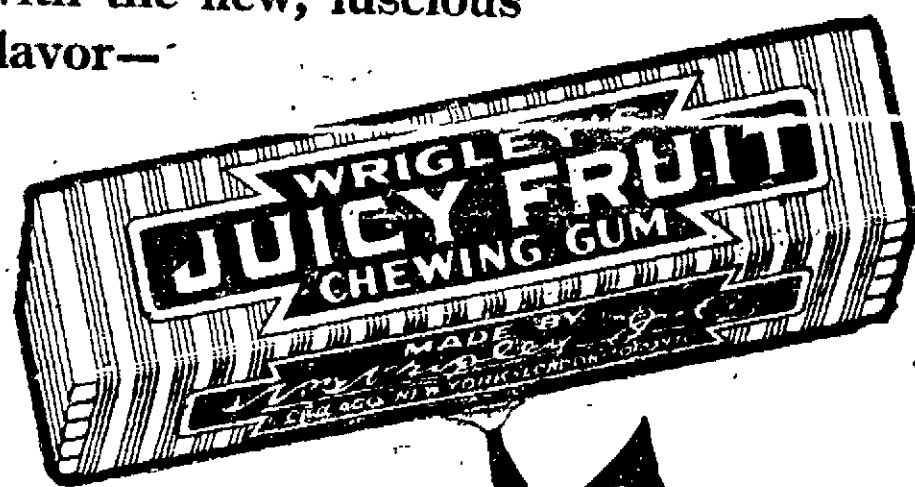

Yet you must not blame them for putting off the dull moment when they must go to the books, alone and with uninteresting surroundings.

Instead, make Jane's room, or John's, a place where study is a pleasure. It doesn't cost much. Look at the table which we show here with two very simple settings. The charm is there and the attraction. It isn't how much you pay that counts; it's what you buy. Let us help fit up John's room, or Jane's, before school time comes.

TOPICS NEW YORK IS TALKING ABOUT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 20.—Additional reports regarding the Paris conference and further disclosure of the plans of the Allies reveal the purpose of continuing the existing military alliance in the form of a commercial alliance after peace is declared. It is proposed to adopt by mutual agreement a system of tariff duties whereby the allied powers will endeavor to promote their own trade and to prevent the Central Powers, especially Germany, from regaining their share of the world's trade which they enjoyed prior to the war. In this scheme the United States is to be accorded the place of a "neutral," neither enjoying the advantages of the Allies nor suffering quite as much disadvantage as the Central Powers. There is, of course, considerable question as to how far it will be practicable for the Allies to discriminate against the United States and in favor of themselves, without inflicting as great injury on the trade of this country as on the Central Powers, which will be the chief object of the discrimination. The plan involves, of course, the abrogation of all treaties containing a "most favored nation" clause and, with England, Russia, France, Belgium, Rumania, Serbia and Montenegro, together with the English and French colonies, each enjoying tariff advantages in the markets of all the others, the arrangement promises to constitute the greatest commercial trust the world has ever witnessed. Even if the word of the Allies, that this gigantic commercial syndicate is organized primarily for their joint advantage, and with no purpose whatever to injure the United States, be accepted as literally true it is obvious that in operation such a colossal combination cannot but work grave injury to the foreign trade of the United States.

Mr. Hughes Diplomatic.

In his campaign speeches Governor Hughes has dwelt with emphasis upon the prospect of the greatest commercial rivalry the world has ever known, following the end of the war. He has pointed out that the war has served to develop a degree of industrial organization and efficiency heretofore unknown among European nations. He has portrayed conditions when the probably 27,000,000 men now either actually engaged in fighting or diverting their entire energies to producing munitions for the armies shall return to their industrial pursuits. It is a keen perception of these conditions and the imperative necessity for finding employment for these great armies after the war which has prompted the diplomatic negotiations looking to the abrogation of the world's trade by the allied powers, in order that peace may not be accompanied by an era of unemployment almost as disastrous as the war itself, in order that foreign markets for the trade of belligerents may be instantly commanded and that, without undue delay, the gold which has been sent abroad to pay for ammunition and military supplies may be regained. With the prospect of bettering the economic conditions of the United States in the diplomatic negotiations, which will terminate the abrogation of existing commercial treaties and the substitution of new ones, therefore, Mr. Hughes has doubtless felt it would not be diplomatic to dwell at too great length on the trade program of the allied powers. To do so might militate against his subsequent efforts to procure for the United States terms as little unfavorable as possible. But the employment by the allied powers of a system of tariff duties to achieve their far-reaching purpose necessarily precludes any feeling of regret on their part if the United States utilizes the same instrumentality to protect its domestic industries and promote its foreign trade. In the light of European developments, it requires no prophetic eye to foresee the disadvantage at which American industries will be placed when compelled to compete with these protected and sustained by the European governments, or to realize how essential it is to continued prosperity in this country that American industries enjoy the protection of a tariff of which which is wholeheartedly devoted to their welfare and promotion.

Decreased Trade With China.

That American interests in China have suffered under the present administration and must do so still more if there is not a radical change has been pointed out frequently in this correspondence. Statistics compiled on this important subject show that for some time the trade of the United States with China has steadily decreased, while that of Great Britain, Japan and India has steadily and rapidly increased. China's foreign trade has increased more than 25 per cent during the last decade. Notwithstanding that fact, however, the share of this country has steadily diminished. In the estimation of some of the ablest American financiers, the tremendous gold surplus of the United States should be rapidly converted into loans to other foreign nations which offer special opportunities for the development of the United States. Such loans to be attended by conditions enforceable by this government and devised to insure the consumption of American goods by the borrowers. In a word, there is in this day an imperative need of far-reaching statesmanship, a statesmanship dictated by broad interests, sound common sense and a reasonable amount of self-protection, rather than by the narrow theories of narrow-mindedness to render vague service to humanity in general.

Carranza Inconsiderate.

It is doubtful if history has ever witnessed a greater mistake than Venustiano Carranza. Elevated from the position of outlaw and bandit to the "de facto" government of a republic with 15,000,000 population, solely by President Wilson's mischievous outwitting, if not sanctioned by Carranza, Carranza, and his continuance in office made possible only by the encouragement and pampering of the Wilson administration. Carranza has now shown his monstrous ingratitude by calling to account his representatives at New London and compelling them to enlighten the public after Mr. Wilson had carefully and adroitly misled it regarding the scope and purpose of the conference. Carranza has peremptorily ordered his delegates to refrain from all further discussion of the internal affairs of Mexico and to confine their deliberations to the two subjects which he has consented to its considering. So vehement was Carranza's communication that it compelled Cabrera, speaking for himself and his fellow delegates, publicly to explain that none of the internal affairs of Mexico had been seriously considered and that he and his associates had merely politely answered questions put them by American delegates. And his explanation completely upsets the myth so sedulously circulated by Mr. Wilson and his friends that the conference was dealing with all Mexico's internal affairs and outlining a program for effecting those reforms of which Mexico is so gloriously in need. Time and again, President Wilson has accepted Carranza's snubs and turned the other cheek, and now, just at a time when it was so essential to Democratic success that the public should be gold-bricked regarding the purpose and extent of the New London conference, and when Messrs. Wilson and McAdoo were actually exerting their influence to procure Carranza's annihilation, Mr. Carranza rudely tears away the curtain and exposes the whole humiliating spectacle to the public gaze and its authors to merited contempt. Well might Mr. Wilson exclaim, "Et tu Brute!"

VENICE OF MEXICO.

Aztec Lake Dwellers and Their Floating Gardens.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—When peace comes more broods over Mexico and the "See America First" campaign is made to embrace the wonderful scenic beauties of the southern republic one of the most popular resorts for tourists will probably be "The Venice of the Valley," graphically described in a communication from Walter Hough to the National Geographic Society, a part of which is issued today in the following bulletin:

"One of the pleasurable experiences among those that delight the traveler in Mexico is a visit to the home of the Aztec lake dwellers. Much of the charm of the great Valley of Mexico, where they live, is due to the stretches of water among the trees and verdant fields in a landscape framed in beautiful mountains and bathed with clearest air of heaven. Their lakes—Texcoco, Xochimilco, Zumpango and Chalco—do not reveal themselves except from the high mountains overlooking the valley. They are shallow bodies of water, unapproachable and lacking the effect of our lakes with their definite shorelines. For this reason they have never been highways of civilized commerce, nor has navigation flourished in their shallow waters; but they were from these very hindrances destined to be jealous mothers of ancient civilization, whose people, protected in the fens, dug out canals and developed an indigenous commerce and transportation to the fullest extent.

"Long before Cortez came the Indians of the valley worked in the boggy lake lands and dug canals between the lakes and to the great city of Tenochtitlan and smaller canals between the fields. Through this maze of waterways, then as now, they sent their boats and in the fens built their thatched houses.

"Pere Salazar, the Franciscan, records that 'the city of Mexico is like another Venice and the people themselves are comparable to the Venetians in urbanity and savoir.' This was written in the 16th century, but in the lapse of several hundred years the city's wonderful water environment has become dry ground, and the seeker for lake dwellers will have to look farther afield in the entrancing valley of the sky.

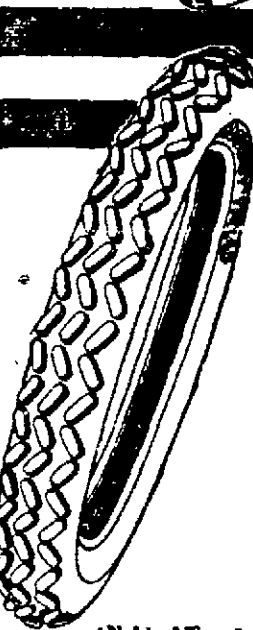

"The way to the present Aztec Venice, which bears the name of Xochimilco in the field of flowers, is through one of these ancient canals—a prehistoric water road from Tenochtitlan to the capital and seat of one of the group of seven Aztec tribes which long ago came from remote Aztlan to the rich valley of Mexico.

"The life on the canal, vivid and picturesque, is as striking now as it was then; it may even be suggested that the change from that time to this has not been very great. It is hard to get a start to the land of the fens in more ways than one—the negotiations for passage in a barge with hostess who display the characteristics of that little-known far world over; and the conflicting claims also of all the countless incidents, shipping and so forth, of the boiling, squirming kaleidoscope canal and shore population on its multifarious guests. Under the holder and make him forget that he is on a journey to see the lake dwellers in their primitive homes. Rapidly, then, the barge comes into the clear pool in front of the profusion of tall, pointed, thatched houses, where all shipping must go under a low bridge and where the old-time toll collector, armed with a rifle, could threaten the recalcitrant without much effort.

"Beyond the entrance begin more vistas of a new world! On this canal, bordered with trees and spanned bridges, is a perfect stream of craft, from the slender dug-out canoe to the square-boxed flatboat, hurrying on with everything to feed, repair, and adorn the great city. Freight is of all descriptions, but on looks curiously on the small bundles of grass and other green forage for animal feed, the delicate barrels, vegetables and flowers. The Indian boatmen, clad in white cotton shirt and trousers, are working with a will, sometimes wading in the canal and drawing the reed-barked boats after them; and alas! returning to their paradise, a be planted in this manner, their swamps are drained and their Curiously enough, these morass old lake dweller life merged into gardens sometimes require irrigation, which is accomplished by good fortune they are kept from throwing on water from the canal with a wooden scoop.

"It cannot be said that the Nohimilcan man has an open and ingenuous countenance, but it shows force of character and lights up quickly in response to kindness and recognition. The young women have round, often ruddy, but rather expressionless faces; the children are better preserved than the women of the Pueblos of the southwestern United States. Both sexes work hard, and where there is such uniformity of poverty the struggle for existence makes life a serious matter and enforces deep lies in the faces of the breadwinners.

When Sumner Scored.

Once when Charles Sumner was in London he gave a ready reply. At a dinner given in his honor he spoke of "the ashes" of some dead men. "Ashes." What American Englishman would have said that? "You mean, Mr. Sumner, we don't bury our dead in this country." "Yes," instantly replied Mr. Sumner, with a courteous smile, "your poet Gray tells us that 'Even in our ashes live the wonted fires.'" The American was not criticized again that evening.

DEAN FIERO GIVEN ROUSING WELCOME

When the doors of the Albany Law School opened for its sixty-sixth year Tuesday Dean J. Newton Fiero started on his twenty-fifth year as a member of the faculty and his twenty-first year as dean. He was given a rousing reception when he entered the assembly hall at the opening exercises in the morning. The dean is a former resident of Kingston and practiced law in this city for some years.

When Dean Fiero rose to speak the applause was deafening and lasted for several minutes. Even the other members of the faculty and the trustees of the school clapped their hands as hard as did the young men. Finally it quieted down somewhat and the dean started to speak, but again he was forced to stop as the applause revived greater than before.

"The Development of the Law School" was the subject chosen by Dean Fiero for his address. He briefly reviewed the time when he first became associated with the faculty of the school 25 years ago. He cited instances after instance to show how the school has grown and prospered during the past few years.

Predicted Much for School.

"There was a time when the Albany Law School was recognized as the superior law school of America," said the dean, "but that was before the founding of the big universities and colleges. Then for a time the attendance at the school dropped off, but of late years it has shown such a marked improvement that I do not hesitate to say that the time is at hand when the Albany Law School will be again recognized as the nation's law institution of America."

The dean predicted that the 1916-17 school year would be by far the best in the school's history. He also touched upon the project of the new school building and said that he felt sure it would be a success. He said that the large number of students from other states who are registered this year at the law school was only one of the many evidences that the Albany institution was fast regaining its former national place.

URBAN SHOCKER

SHOCKER NOW A REAL PITCHING STAR.

All doubt that may have existed in the mind of Bill Donovan, manager of the New York Yankees, regarding the pitching ability of Urban Shocker has been removed. Shocker is a real star. The youth made a remarkable record in Toronto, but after a fine start with the Yankees began to slow up. His defeat of the Athletics and the heavy hitting Tigers has placed him among the famous twirlers of the season. Shocker has a spitter which he uses with remarkable success.

The Electric Fan.
Back in the early eighties Dr. S. S. Wheeler, an electrical engineer of New York, was experimenting with a small electric motor. In the course of his experiments the doctor conceived the idea that steamboats might be run with electricity if the propellers could be directly connected to high speed electric motors, doing away with all the gears then in use in steam propulsion. With this idea in mind he had a small screw propeller constructed and fastened it to the armature shaft of his small motor. To his surprise, the experiment resulted in a fine breeze of cooling air which more than delighted the experimenter, for the day was decidedly hot. It is needless to add that the experiments with screw propellers ended right there, and the engineer took up the study of the electric fan, with the result that he soon perfected the device until it was a commercial success.

Mill Girls and Shawls.
The working women and girls of Lancashire and Yorkshire regard the shawl as a necessity, and especially is this the case in the colliery districts. A writer in an English monthly says: "Domestic duties, performed in varying temperatures, on washing days and cleaning days, in the house or about the yard, are rendered safe under the protection of a shawl. The mill girl could scarcely get on without it. It shields her between the mill and home, winter and summer, in snow or rain. It is easily donned and doffed. It is the handiest of all articles of wearing apparel and, as made in England today, is moderate in cost. A warm soft shawl would save many a racking cough and stave off incipient pulmonary troubles. It is a tried and proved sanitarium."

The Onion.
There is nothing particularly poetical about the onion, but Shakespeare has several references to this "edible bulbous root" defined by Johnson simply as "a plant." The bard's comments are, however, mostly concerned with the lachrymal properties, and Swift refers to it in a cookery book manner, advising that it be well boiled if we do not wish our kissing to be spoiled. Beaumont and Fletcher, however, in "The Mad Lover," make a direct reference to its medicinal virtues:

"The plague."
"I'll cure it with an onion."

Maddening.
"They really fear she will become insane. You see, she found a diary he kept before he married her."
"Oh, I see! And the awful revelations?"
"Revelations? No. It was all in cipher, and she couldn't read a word of it."—London Tit-Bits.

Soap Economy.
When a cake of soap is worn nearly thin enough to break stick it to the new cake by putting both in quite warm water, then press firmly together. When cold it will be one solid cake. This does away with small pieces of soap and there is no waste.

PITCHES AS IF HE HAD TIME TO BURN

EDDIE PLANK, VETERAN SOUTHPAW PITCHER.

"I have been pitching this way for 16 years," said Eddie Plank, when called to task the other day for stepping off the rubber before delivering the ball. Eddie's way is unique, however, as well as tiresome, in that he usually drags a game over two hours.

His endless delays fret the batters, but amuse the fans. The former Mackman's routine in delivery is approximately as follows:

Hitches belt, adjusts cap, walks back to box in half circle, faces batter and stretches arms, steps on rubber with left foot and taps right foot to ground eight times when the ball is delivered to batter, tucks in shirt with every third ball pitched, gazes into sky over third base on every called ball, dislodges imaginary pebble in pitcher's box every time batter has three balls and one strike or three and two.

NOTES of the DIAMOND

Oscar Stange's latest injury is a broken thumb.

The Cleveland club denies it is after Pitcher Joe Bush of the Athletics.

Because of the war in Europe the price of umpire's indicators has advanced.

Pacific Coast league batting averages show Jimmy Sheck remaining home-run hitter of the league.

Dave Hickman will return to the Brooklyn Dodgers at the close of the North Carolina league season.

Harry Wolter was one of the best hitters on the New York Yankees when Chance was manager of that team.

Washington has a Judge playing first base. Every time he falls down there is always a place on the bench for him.

The Cleveland club seems to have made a mistake in letting go of Elmer Smith, the youngster who hits the ball so hard.

Lena Blackburne, former White Sox favorite, has been named as successor to Joe Birmingham as head of the Toronto team.

President Johnson's orders against remarks from players from the bench is even more drastic than that of President Tanager.

Hank Robinson having demonstrated that he can pitch good ball, the St. Louis Cardinals decided to recall him from Little Rock.

The Detroit club will give a trial to Artie Kohler, who has been making his mark as a catcher with the Gettysburg team of the Blue Ridge league.

Certain Western league club owners have been feeling out Frank Isbell of Des Moines to see if he would accept the office of president of the league.

Baseballs being just as round in the National as they were in the Federal league, it is hard to understand Kniff's inability to hit in the parent organization.

There is this difference between playing third base for the Athletics and guarding a front position on the Somme—the man on the Somme will get a pension.

The Detroit club has purchased outfielder Jacinto Calvo from Vancouver of the Northwestern league and turned him over to San Francisco for the Coast league season.

Fred Jacklitch, one-time Brooklyn catcher, is the latest ex-Fed to see the defunct outlaws under his "mutual" contract. He wants the Baltimore Feds to pay him $2,300.

First Principle of Effort.
The great principle of effort is to endeavor to do, not what is absolutely best, but what is easily within our power and adapted to our temper and condition.—John Bunyan.

SHERROD SMITH PLAYS GOLF

Disgusted Caddie Refers to Him as "Some Woodpecker" When He Drives Ball Into Woods.

"Jack Coombs, Sherrod Smith, a newspaper man and I were playing a foursome on one of the Pittsburgh golf links the other day, and the caddie who had Smith in tow was greatly awed by his illustrious employer," said Nap Rucker, star southpaw of the Brooklyn Dodgers, the other day.

"There's a thick wood to the right of the first tee, and Smith, who swings left-handed, just as he pitches, hooked his first ball into the woods. He tried again. Once more he smashed the ball into the woods. In rapid succession he drove eight balls into the tall and uncut.

"The caddie was disgusted. He was no longer proud he was Sherrod Smith's caddie. Finally he could keep still no longer.

"'Geel Mr. Smith,' he shouted; 'you're some woodpecker!'"

BALL PLAYERS MUST BEHAVE

President Tener of National League inaugurates New Era of Conduct—Managers to Help.

President Tener is inaugurating a new era of conduct on the part of ball players in the National league. He announces that the club owners are to help him make the players behave.

Every manager will help him make the players of the other seven teams behave, but it is a question about making their own players act well.

MUZZLE PLACED ON PLAYERS

Those Sitting on Bench Must Confine Remarks to Themselves—Must Not Address Umpire.

A new ruling in baseball forces players who are on the bench to confine their remarks to members of their own team, and does not allow them to address the umpire. They've de-bellized the game to such an extent that umpiring nowadays is hardly considered a precarious occupation.—Detroit News.

ELLENVILLE

Ellenville, Sept. 20.—The members of the Musical Club will be entertained at the home of Miss A. Eliza Cox at Yankee Place, Thursday afternoon. The subject of the meeting is "Schumann" and an interesting program is being arranged by Mrs. Edward B. Kimble to be given on the above musical.

Mrs. John W. Rapp entertained at her home on Main street Tuesday afternoon a company of lady friends, the guest of honor being Mrs. Elizabeth Parker Gould of Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ter Bush of New York have been spending their vacation with Ellenville and Greenfield relatives.

Miss Grace Decker of Schenectady is visiting her father, William Decker on Center street.

Harold Patterson, who has been employed in the drug store of his uncle, Patterson and Schomaker, the past year, will enter Columbia College in New York, to study pharmacy the coming week. Harold is now visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Patterson at Beacon, N. Y.

Miss Blanch Lauber of Ulster Heights is visiting her cousin, Miss Jennie McDowell on North Main street.

J. J. Ryan of Ryan and Wells has been on a business trip to Florida, N. Y., this week.

Ellenville friends deeply regret the departure of William H. Dove and family from town. They leave for New York this week, where they are to reside. The Dove residence on Center street, where they resided will be for rent or sale it is understood. Mr. Dove is to make his home with his daughter, Mrs. S. V. Durland on Hormance street.

Matthew Van Keuren has returned home, after a time spent in New York.

Miss Jennie Russell has gone to New York for the season for securing latest styles in millinery and will engage for the coming season with the Carle store in Kingston.

Rev. George H. Smith and Mrs. Smith are spending some time at the McElhone home.

"Ol" Campbell of Brooklyn has been spending some days in Ellenville renewing old friendship.

Mrs. J. S. Cantine of Leurenkili is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Hallock and family at Milton-on-Hudson.

It is understood that Rev. W. H. Moser and family will return from Yankee Lake, where they have been spending several months about October first.

Mrs. George F. Kelp of Pine Bush is spending some days in Ellenville visiting old friends as a guest of Miss Ida Kimble.

Mrs. C. H. Sheeley and Mrs. W. C. McNally have returned from a delightful stay at Asbury Park.

Poljoeman Isaac Freer has been enjoying a week's vacation.

H. L. Smith the teacher in the new department of agriculture will board with Mrs. A. V. Keeler.

It is decided that the Ellenville schools will open on Monday, October 2.

Miss Laura Demarest Van Wageningen of Wawarsing has been spending the week with relatives at Binghamton.

Prisoners of Verdun.
During the Napoleonic wars of more than a century ago Verdun was the principal camp for Britons taken prisoner by the French. The confinement of these prisoners was not strict, and they had much leisure, it is said, for gambling, dueling and even for love-making among the damsels of the province. Verdun was even envied for getting the "keep" of these prisoners, and the mayor of Metz petitioned the French government for a share of them. Among these desirable Britons was Lord Yarmouth, said by some to be the original of the Marquis of Sterne in Thackeray's "Vanity Fair" and of Lord Monmouth in one of Disraeli's novels.

Wonderful Tree Roots.
The Jond, a tree which grows profusely in the Indian Punjab, a very dry region, is chiefly remarkable for its very long tap root, which was eighty-four feet in one remarkable specimen and which descended vertically sixty-four feet into the earth.

"Reminds Me of the Old Days, Mary"

"I used to think there was nothing so cheerful as the old-fashioned fire place. This Gas Room Heater, however, is even more comforting these chilly September evenings than the old blazing hearth. It is fully as bright and cozy, gives off plenty of warmth, and is much less bother and much cleaner."

"I don't have to get down on my knees to build a fire and I don't need to fuss with fuel or ashes. Besides it is portable and can be placed wherever I want it. And my Gas bills prove that it is far from expensive to operate."

VILLA CAPTURES CHIHUAHUA CITY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

El Paso, Sept. 20.—Reports received here today stated that Pancho Villa captured Chihuahua City early this morning.

Mexican officials at Juarez will neither confirm or deny the reports.

San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 20.—All Chihuahua is threatened with revolt against General Carranza, as a result of Pancho Villa's dash on Chihuahua City, according to information reaching Major General Funston today from northwestern Mexico.

Carranza garrisons, isolated by Villista uprisings between the border and Chihuahua City, are reported about to go over to the bandit. It is reported that the railroad between Chihuahua and Juarez is probably under Villista control.

Reports reaching here say that Chihuahua City is surrounded by followers of the bandit and that half of the garrison there has mutinied against General Trevino.

Another report has it that General Trevino was shot Friday during the attack by his own men and subsequently driven out of the city.

"Villa and his followers seem to have done a pretty effective job down there," said General Funston today. "The garrisons to the north appear to be now in a precarious plight."

FELONY CHARGES AGAINST RIOTERS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 20.—With an alarming increase in violence in the traction strike today, the police adopted rigid plans to check disorder. Of the twenty arrests made since last night, fifteen of the prisoners were charged with felony.

Those caught in the act of hurling missiles are to be tried under a section of the penal code which provides a penalty of from five to twenty years in prison for endangering the lives of passengers in cars.

A special squad of detectives was assigned to the work of guarding cross-town cars, where most of the disorders have occurred.

The police today reported an increase of subway, elevated and surface cars in operation, over yesterday.

The state board of mediation and arbitration will meet in New York tomorrow with traction heads and strike leaders, together with the mayor and members of the public service commission, in an effort to suggest some means for ending the traction strike and to prevent the threatened sympathetic industrial walk-out.

Former Ambassador Dead.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—William J. Calhoun, former ambassador to China and boyhood chum of the late President McKinley, is dead at his home here today. His last public appearance was at the Republican convention when he placed in nomination Senator Lawrence J. Sherman.

He became ill shortly after, suffering a stroke of paralysis on July 4, from which he never fully recovered.

CASHIN SUES FOR DAMAGE TO CAR

County court convened this morning at 10 o'clock with County Judge Jenkins presiding and the day calendar was taken up. The first case, No. 3, Edward R. Cashin against Francis A. Waters, Jr., an action to recover for damage to the plaintiff's automobile was begun.

The action is brought to recover $333 damage which the plaintiff alleges was done his automobile in a collision with a wagon load of wood owned by the defendant.

Mr. Cashin claims that the Waters rig was being driven along the Flatbush road on December first, 1915, without lights and as a result a collision occurred. The automobile was damaged about the top, the fenders and rear axle to the extent of over $300.

N. Frank O'Reilly and William H. Grogan appear for Mr. Cashin with Van Buren & Loughran for defendant.

County Superintendent of Highways Loughran was sworn and described the roadway at the point of the collision and several maps were introduced in evidence.

The accident occurred at a point about one half a mile from the city line on the Flatbush road and a mile and a half from the intersection of the East Kingston road. At this point in the road is a turn known among people who travel the road as an "S" turn.

On the night of the accident Mr. Cashin was returning from East Kingston where he had taken a party who hired the car and at the turn two wagons containing telephone poles and owned by Mr. Waters had stopped while one of the teams was unhitched and used to assist a third wagon up a hill.

In making the turn according to Mr. Cashin, who was sworn after Mr. Loughran, the headlights of his car swung round to the right, revealing the rig on that side of the road while the wagon on the left was not lighted. There was no lights on either wagons and the lamps of the automobile being stationary did not light the road to the left in making the turn.

Mr. Cashin testified as to the damage done his machine and the manner in which the accident took place.

The damage to the automobile was in the rear where the poles which extended out over the wagon struck.

The case was continued in the afternoon.

Bridge Material Not Here Yet.

As far as known material to be used in the building of the concrete abutments for the proposed Sleightsburgh bridge has not arrived yet.

Men are still busy at work erecting an office on the Island Dock for the use of the contractors, and other men are busy clearing away the underbrush on the opposite side of the creek at a point where one of the abutments will be built.

Food Riots in Saxony.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Sept. 20.—Press despatches from The Hague report food riots at Chemnitz, Saxony, in which forty civilians were killed before order was restored. The mobs, according to the despatches, were charged by Hunsars, five of whom were killed and fourteen wounded.

Newburgh Police Force Increased.

Authority to appoint two additional members of the police force of Newburgh to take office immediately and two to assume their duties the first of the year was voted the city manager by the common council on Monday afternoon in that city.

DIED.

In Memoriam.

On Saturday, Sept. 2nd, 1916, after a painful and lingering illness borne with fortitude and resignation, Earl Osterhout, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Dory Osterhout, died.

Loving and beloved, called and found ready, in the morning of life he gently closed his eyes and was with God. Born at Lyonsville, Ulster Co., he removed with his parents while still a child to Rosendale, where with some short intervals his whole life has been passed, here he loved and extended he grew to young manhood, here, too, when an idolized and only child to whom nothing could be denied, he made his short life a noble example of self restraint, sobriety and right living.

On Sept. 4th, a bright, beautiful day, the funeral was held from his father's house; many tears were shed as the preacher, the Rev. Mr. Millard, spoke of the life that now is, and of that which is to come, and every heart joined as he implored the All-wise and sustaining God to comfort and sustain those who mourned.

Slowly and sadly he was borne to his last resting place by the hands of the young companions whom he had known and loved, and there midst the bloom of flowers, fit emblems of this evanescent life, with touching words the eloquent voice of the preacher, consigned his body to the grave and his immortal spirit to God, who gave it.

It was with sorrow and regret that the writer, who knew him well and was indebted to him for many kindnesses, looked for the last time upon his face, and now brings this slight tribute to the memory of the young life that has passed forever from among us.

Oh thou who art the Lord of life and death, Dispenser of our sorrows and our joys, Dear Christ we pray thee to thy mercy take, Our boy.

Ashesto ashesthe preacher saith, and dust to dust, But oh thou shining one, whose breath shall death destroy, Safe in thy all embracing love we leave, Our boy.

—Alan Mackenzie.

FIVE KILLED IN AETNA EXPLOSION

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Huntingdon, Pa., Sept. 20.—Five men were killed and another sustained probable fatal injuries when an explosion wrecked the air dry building of the Aetna Explosives Company plant east of Mount Union this morning. The blast rocked for many miles around houses and brought people out of their homes with a rush. The air dry building was completely wrecked, sections of it being hurled several hundred yards. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

Arriving Coming Home.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, Sept. 20.—The war department announced today that besides the Second New York Infantry, already selected to return home, the First Vermont and three regiments of Pennsylvania militia would be sent from the border following arrival there of the North Carolina and Tennessee regiments. The Pennsylvania regiments to return are to be designated by General Funston.

FRENCH-CHINESE SOLDIERS EATING HASTY LUNCH. CHINA. FROM SERVICE. CHINESE TROOPS AND THE ALLIES IN COSMOPOLITAN SALONICA.

Here are soldiers from French Indo-China, who are fighting under the French colors at Salonica, eating a hasty lunch. In the background are French and British officers. The picture gives some idea of the cosmopolitan appearance of Salonica. French, British, Serbian, Russian, Italian, Montenegrin and now Chinese troops are represented in the army of the allies in Macedonia.

Lord Palmerston's Dinner.

Lord Palmerston was a remarkable feeder, as it is shown by this account of his table work when he was eighty years of age.

"He ate for dinner two plates of turtle soup. He was then served very simply to a plate of cod and oyster sauce. He then took a pate, afterward he was helped to two very greasy looking entrees. He then dispatched a plate of roast mutton. There then appeared before him the largest and, to my mind, the hardest slice of ham that ever figured on the table of a nobleman, yet it disappeared just in time to answer the inquiry of his butler, 'Supper, my lord, or pleasant?' He instantly replied, 'Thank you,' thus completing his ninth dish of meat at that meal."

This was Lord Palmerston, who lived and worked like a horse till he was eighty-one, and would doubtless have poured scorn upon the scientific slops and puddles offered to old men in our day. Palmerston was one that was scorched by his victims and would have been a great deal more.

Neither new down the whole forest nor come home without wood.—Servian Proverb.
